When an opportunity was given for general citizen comments, the following people addressed the City Commission:

Citizen Comments

Nehemiah Scudder, City resident, spoke about community resources and medications available for people with mental illnesses.

James Kavanaugh, City resident, expressed frustration with the street widening project being planned for Vine Street and reported City crews had already begun removing trees.

Anthony Roth, City resident, expressed concerns about the Vine Street widening project and the lack of outreach to residents. Mr. Ross asked the City Commission to keep the project from happening.

Greg Taylor, City resident, thanked the City Commission and City Manager Ritsema for supporting the Exchange Place project.

Next, an opportunity was given for miscellaneous comments and concerns of City Commissioners.

City Commissioner
Comments

Commissioner Milcarek expressed concerns about the Vine Street widening project and discrepancies between citizen reports from the City's information meetings and the reports from City staff to Commissioners about those same meetings. Commissioner Milcarek indicated he was surprised the City had started to cut down trees, and he asked for more citizen engagement on this project before the beginning of summer. Commissioner Milcarek noted that he had participated in the development of the Safe Routes to School plan, and he clarified that street widening and bump-outs were never part of that plan.

Commissioner Urban offered comments on the lack of community engagement by City staff regarding significant street projects. Commissioner Urban noted the operating millage reduction in the proposed budget was the first real change associated with the Foundation for Excellence.

Commissioner Knott requested information about the Vine Street project and an update on the City's leaf removal efforts.

In response to Commissioner Knott, Public Services Director James Baker reported crews were one-quarter of the way through the sections of the City that had missed the second leaf pick-up. Director Baker stated the Vine Street project had been in the pipeline for over five years. Director Baker explained the street would be widened seven feet on the north side to accommodate vehicle and bike traffic, and the trees that were removed would be one-for-one. Director Baker offered that City engineers were looking to work more closely with neighborhoods and the Community Planning and Development Department on future project to shrink the planning time. Director Baker noted that street projects frequently required decisions and compromises because they were attempting to address multiple goals.

Commissioner Sykes requested a public presentation on the Vine Street project at the next City Commission meeting and requested that the presentation address questions about the City's notification to residents and the timeline for the project moving forward. Commissioner Sykes remarked on her aunt's struggle with mental illness.

Commissioner Anderson remarked on City's local preference purchasing policy vis-à-vis the contract for lubricants that was approved on the consent agenda. Commissioner Anderson highlighted an article in the Detroit News regarding low staffing levels at local law enforcement agencies and the difficulties in recruiting new officers.

Vice Mayor Cooney expressed support for Commissioner Sykes' request for a presentation on the Vine Street project. Vice Mayor Cooney remarked on the successes of the Western Michigan University football team and the commitment of the players.
